

"TAG IN" FOR SUMMER READING

LIVE UNITED™

A SIMPLE CONCEPT WITH TANGIBLE RESULTS.

READING JUST 4-5 BOOKS

OVER THE SUMMER CAN PREVENT CHILDREN FROM LOSING CRITICAL LITERACY SKILLS

TEACHERS TAG OUT,
PARENTS TAG IN

WHEN TEACHERS TAG OUT for the summer, it's time for parents to "Tag In" and keep kids reading during the summer months.

THROUGH UNITED WAY'S TAG IN program our first priority is to ensure parents, especially those of elementary aged school children, understand why it is so critical to keep kids reading over the summer. Then, we strive to give children the resources they need to read.

Students at Wilkes-Barre Area School District's Kistler Elementary School are offered a free book fair using books collected from United Way's Annual Children's Book Drive to keep them interested in reading and learning all summer long.

"The Book Fair was amazing! The kids loved it. Too many students do not have access to books over the summer months and the fair helped them keep their reading skills at grade level."

~Darlene Payne, School Teacher, Kistler Elementary
